

LibraryCrunch

Bringing You A "Library 2.0" Perspective, by Michael Casey

« Photography and the National Archives | Main | Within the inner sanctum »

Going to Seattle

Next Tuesday I fly out to Seattle for Microsoft Search Champs v4. I received an email several weeks ago inviting me to participate and, though I must admit to never having heard of it, after hearing a little about it I was very interested. I had to sign a non-disclosure agreement, but I'll share as much as I can after it's over. I see that Frederico Oliveira over at WeBreakStuff has said he's going, as has Richard MacManus from Read/WriteWeb. These two guys have some of the best Web 2.0 blogs on the net, so I can't wait to meet them.

Like Frederico, I'm also very anxious to see the new Seattle Public Library's Central Branch, so I booked my return flight as a red eye just so I can spend the afternoon exploring the library. The only other thing on my itinerary is a great cup of coffee and taking lots of photos.

Posted by Michael on January 19, 2006 06:12 AM | Permalink

→ TrackBack

TrackBack URL for this entry:
<http://www.librarycrunch.com/mt/mt-tb.cgi/105>

Listed below are links to weblogs that reference Going to Seattle:

» Searching in Seattle from Tame The Web: Libraries and Technology
I'm enjoying Michael Casey' photos from Seattle. He's out there for Microsoft with some other cool folk. He did what I would: arrive, get in the hotel and immediately zip over to see the new main library! <http://www.flickr.com/photos/michaelcasey/tags/...> [\[Read More\]](#)

Tracked on January 24, 2006 08:45 PM

→ Comments

M - Enjoy Seattle! What an excellent opportunity!

M.

Posted by: Michael Stephens | January 20, 2006 06:33 AM

→ Post a comment

Name:

Email Address:

URL:

☐ Remember personal info?

Comments:

Preview

Post

