Balance

If your only goal is to be balanced then you should probably keep your sails
lowered because the wind
may frighten you.

Others, more bold,
will raise their sails
and explore the wider seas.

"If your only goal is balance..."

True enough. (I honestly don't know of anybody in the library field whose "only goal" is balance...but it's a nice picture.)

On the other hand, most ship and boat captains attempt to come back to being on even keel in the long run.
